

CASE STUDY USE

To: California Management Review (CMR); and
The Berkeley-Haas School of Business (HAAS); and
The Regents of the University of California (THE REGENTS)

I _____ have read the case study entitled _____

_____ (the "case study"), of which the lead author is _____ and in which I, and/or the organization with which I am affiliated, is described. On the basis of my review of the case study and on behalf of my company and myself personally, I do not request any changes to the case study. I understand that typically, but not always, the CMR and/or HAAS may test the use of the case study in a classroom environment and that as a result of this use, the case study may be modified, but not in a material way. I further acknowledge that CMR, in its sole discretion, may change the case study from time to time to correct typographical and grammatical errors, rearrange exhibits, or make formatting changes, and that other changes may be made to the case study from time to time by CMR to enhance its use in a classroom environment.

- A. I hereby acknowledge that the case study may be used by and at:
 - 1) CMR and HAAS, and
 - 2) other educational institutions and other organizations;

- B. I acknowledge that the copyright for the case study is held by THE REGENTS, and that THE REGENTS may, in its sole discretion, distribute, sell, authorize use of the case study in a book or otherwise deal with the case study in whatever way it deems appropriate.

I have authority to execute this agreement:
